

The Miller Annual Summer Scholarship in Classical Archaeology

Are you:

- interested in the ancient world?
- excited about dirt, dust, and pot sherds?
- wanting to spend a month (or so) abroad next summer?
- ready to explain to your friends and family why Indiana Jones is incorrect?
- a freshman, sophomore, or junior majoring/minoring in classics (or planning on it)?

The Miller Annual Summer Scholarship in Classical Archaeology provides funds ($4,000-$7,000) for up to two classics majors or minors at John Carroll University to attend a summer classical archaeology field school.

*End of the 2005 season clean-up at Tel Dor, Israel.
Photo credit: K. Ehrhardt.*

Interested? Email or come see Dr. Ehrhardt for more details and application information!

Dr. Ehrhardt, kehrhardt@jcu.edu, OC119